1. Background

The Acceptable Use of Information and Communications Technology Policy states that an ICT resource must not be used “to disclose private or confidential data of another or look up data in a Western Australia (WA) health system application regarding a relative, friend or person associated with any clinical incident, and not associated with purposes relating to your official duties.”

- All PSOLIS users must have an active unique HE numbers to access PSOLIS.
- PSOLIS access will be granted based on the following overarching principles:

Need-to Know and Need-to-Use principles: users are only granted access to the information or information processing facilities they need to perform their tasks.

Principle of least privilege: only the minimum privileges necessary to complete required tasks will be assigned to each user.

- PSOLIS access is given to users on the understanding that they will attend training within 6 weeks, where possible, of obtaining PSOLIS access.
